

DE LAFFOREST GREGOIRE

French interior architect and designer Grégoire de Lafforest graduated from ESAG Penninghen, a Parisian institution of higher education, before working in many interior architecture agencies such as Bruno Moinard's, Noé Duchaufour Lawrence's and Gilles & Boissier's. Within these structures, he participated in major projects such as the decoration of Hermès Paris's head offices, the refurbishing of all Cartier boutiques, the renovation of a mansion house for Veuve Clicquot and more recently, the redesigning of Baccarat Hotel in New York City. He is currently working with Hermès to design their furniture collections.

At the same time, he develops his own interior design and furniture projects, which earned him VIA awards in 2011, 2012, 2013 and 2014. He also won the "Talent of Elegance" award at the Luxury Summit of Creation 2017.
